Introduction to the ADA Paratransit Eligibility Application

You have requested an application for ADA paratransit eligibility. Please read the following introduction information carefully before filling out the attached application. If you have questions, call (510) 287-5000.

AC TRANSIT AND BART SERVICE

East Bay Paratransit is a paratransit service operated by AC Transit and BART to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act. By law, it is only available to people who are unable to use AC Transit's or BART's regular service due to a disability. The application process will determine whether you are able to use AC Transit's or BART's buses or trains.

The regular buses and trains have been improved over the years to be very convenient and accessible for people with disabilities. We would like you to be aware of the following features and benefits of using the regular buses or trains before you apply for paratransit.

Features:

- All AC Transit buses have lifts or ramps for wheelchairs and for people who can't climb stairs.
- Many AC Transit stops have shelters or benches.
- Seats near the door on both buses and trains are marked for seniors and people with disabilities.
- Bus and train operators announce stops.
- BART stations have audio and visual announcements of all train arrivals and departures.
- All BART stations have elevators, which can be used by people in wheelchairs or others who can't climb stairs.
- All BART stations have escalators.
- All buses and trains have specific locations to accommodate wheelchairs.
- BART stations have tactile warning tiles marking the platform edge.
- All BART stations have disabled parking near the entrance.

Benefits:

If you can use regular buses or trains for all or some of your travel, you will find there are considerable benefits:

- The fare for people with disabilities and seniors is very low: 85 cents for a one-way trip on AC Transit and about 30% of the regular adult fare on BART.
- No need to make advanced reservations – you can ride anytime you want.
- Service is conveniently scheduled.
- Trip planning services are available by phone (dial 511), or on the web from AC Transit (actransit.org), or BART (BART.gov).
- Personal care attendants travel with you at a reduced rate.
- There is generally a bus stop or BART station near where you want to go.

EAST BAY PARATRANSIT SERVICE

If your disability prevents you from using the regular AC Transit or BART service, then you are probably eligible for paratransit. ADA paratransit provides many travel opportunities for people with disabilities. It meets the needs of many, but it has limitations. It is important that you understand the following characteristics of East Bay Paratransit before you apply.

- Service is curb to curb, although drivers can assist riders to and from the street door of their origin or destination, if needed. The driver cannot enter homes or businesses.
- The fare is twice the regular adult fare of the fixed route service. East Bay Paratransit fares start at $3.00.
- Companions, including children pay full fare. Qualified attendants travel free.
- Advanced reservations are necessary for all trips—riders must call at least the day before.
- There are no same day reservations.
- Drivers do not provide custodial care—if the rider needs substantial assistance or supervision, they need to bring an attendant.
- The rider will share the vehicle with others going to other destinations—so travel time may be considerably longer than taking a taxi or driving.
- The pick-up request time may be unavailable. Paratransit may need to schedule the pick-up as much as one hour from the time requested.
- The reservation will be confirmed for a pick-up within a 30-minute “window”. The rider must be ready and waiting during the 30 minutes.
- If the combined weight of you and your wheelchair or scooter is more than 600 pounds, East Bay Paratransit may not be able to provide you transportation.

OTHER PARATRANSIT SERVICES

In addition to East Bay Paratransit, most cities in the East Bay also provide some type of paratransit services.
